

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page
10	Notice to Creditors
10	Kahala Pineapple Company
6	Sachs Dry Goods Company
8	H. Blackfield & Co.
8	J. R. Rocha
4	Manufacturers' Shoe Company
5	Probate Notice
3	Lost
4	Trent Trust Company

THE WEATHER.

Local Office, U. S. Weather Bureau.

Thursday, March 21, 1912.

Temperature, 6 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 10 a. m., and maximum:

68, 73, 75, 68.

Barometer reading: Absolute humidity (grains per cubic foot); relative humidity and dew point at 8 a. m.:

30.05, 59, 61, 5.181.

Wind velocity and direction at 6 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 10 a. m., and noon:

4NE, 3NE, 3NE, 1NE.

Rainfall during 24 hours ending 8 a. m., .00 rainfall.

Total wind movement during 24 hours ending at noon, 196 miles.

WM. B. STOCKMAN,

Section Director.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Paragraphs That Give Condensed News of the Day.

Atlas Geography, Weekly Call, $2.50. Tweedie.

Camp Very social club will give a dance at Odd Fellows' hall tomorrow evening.

No "waits" at the Silent Barber Shop. Six chairs and six first-class barbers.

Another large shipment of Bermuda onions arrived from Kauai in the steamer W. G. Hall this week.

Have you seen the up-to-date line of St. Patrick and Easter cards at Wall, Nichols Co., Ltd.? Don't miss it.

The Metropolitan Meat Co. has just received by the Hilonian a lot of fresh halibut, smelt, sole, flounder and crab.

A Japanese laborer fell off a plantation train at Hilo, Hawaii, last week and was run over and killed.

In the mortar tests at Fort Ruger yesterday the traversing gear pedestal of one of the pieces was broken.

The harbor commissioners propose to test the wishes of the mercantile community, as to the proposed sale of Honolulu Hale.

A silver chain purse was lost on Beretania street between Alapai and Fort. A reward is offered for its return to Star office.

The Royal Hawaiian Garage is offering an almost brand new, four-cylinder, 30-horsepower, four seater touring car for $900. This is a big bargain.

All members of tenth precinct, fifth district, Republican Club, are requested to meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the corner of Beckley street and Gulick avenue.

Health Inspectors Bowman, Caceres, Namahala, Russell and Lo, on the island of Hawaii, have received commissions as fruit fly campaign inspectors from the board of agriculture.

Naval officials here are not afraid of a coal famine for any ships that may be here for many months to come, as there is 30,000 tons stored on the naval reservation and elsewhere in Honolulu.

Attorney General Lindsay advised the harbor commission to decline to pay a claim of $19 for hospital treatment of a McCabe, Hamilton &amp; Remy stevedore injured by the fall of a sliding door on Alakea street.

Action to register the title to the strip of land in the Allen &amp; Robinson block, that there has been so much talk about, will be asked of the attorney general. The harbor commissioners yesterday resolved that action be taken.

We will make the island trip, with party of three or four at $6.00 each; and party of five or six at $5.00 each. Our per hour rates are $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. Holidays, $5.00 per hour. Silva's Auto Stand, Chaplain street, opposite Catholic Mission. Phone 3864 or 1179.

Pacific Rehekah Lodge, No. 1, I. O. O. F., will celebrate its twenty-fourth anniversary March 28 at I. O. O. F. hall. All Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and their families are cordially invited. Dancing and cards will furnish part of the evening entertainment commencing at 8:15 p. m.

The late circuit court session at Hilo was the shortest on record in time spent on trials. All of the defendants indicted at the session pleaded guilty, and of two holdover cases the appeal was withdrawn in one.

There was a trial in the other case, a Japanese being found guilty of assault with a weapon.

Four hundred Japanese laborers on Pala plantation went on strike yesterday, because the manager refused to discharge the plantation policeman and a luna, who had interfered to quell a riot at a wedding luau Saturday night. The revelers gave the intruders a terrible beating, but not satisfied with that demanded their discharge.

The oil pipe line agreement between the Territory, of the one part, and the Hawaiian Electric and Inter-Island Steam Navigation companies, on the other part, made four years ago.

USED TURTLE FOR A TABLE

There is little of interest to report from the fishing grounds.

Archib Robertson and party were out on Sunday last off Diamond Head but didn't get much except a ten-pound uka, a six-pound balloon fish, and some small stuff.

Most of the rod-and-liners are taking a lay off till the beginning of next month by which time the water will be warmer and the fish should respond to the angler's wiles more kindly.

A large turtle haunted the vicinity of Robertson's canoe last Sunday and remained motionless for half an hour at a time basking at the occupant's of the canoe, who every now and again threw the shelly creature a small fish.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

The turtle, so Robertson declares, was so close to the canoe when lunch time came around that his broad, table-like shell was used to stand the Thermos bottle on when it wasn't in circulation.

MORALITY WITHOUT SPIRITUALITY NOT SUFFICIENT, SAYS WADMAN

they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand.

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand."

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand."

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand.

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand."

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and they speak, but they forget that there are others outside the church who need a helping hand."

"Too often we are too complimentary in our religious services. We go to church in our best hats and our best clothes and in offering up our prayers we say, 'Good Lord, how good Thou art and how holy we are; what a beautiful edifice in which we worship, etc.'"

"Then after church they tell the minister what an excellent sermon he preached. A minister would far rather you throw a cup of cold water in his face than have you tell him what a good sermon he has just preached."

"And when Monday comes—"

"There are many people right here in Honolulu who possess commercial, civil and social morality, but these are not enough, for until the element of spiritual morality enters into the life of a man or woman he or she will never get all out of life that there is in it."

"The object of the present Christian Extension Movement is to get this class of people into our churches. There are many of them in this city—excellent people in every respect except that they lack the spiritual morality."

Mr. Wadman closed his sermon with the story of the struggles of a young man whom he had known to give himself over entirely to God.

"God does not want us to wait and hesitate and be undecided," said Mr. Wadman. "He wants us to stand straight and upright and say, 'I will.' He is whispering tonight, yes, whispering, but in the tones of love and command, 'Brother, sister, your hearts.'"

This evening's sermon will be on "A Live Conscience." At the song service, which begins at 7:30, Mr. Butler is to sing, "A Clean Heart."

The above are a few of the "Don't's" laid down by the Rev. John W. Wadman in his sermon delivered yesterday evening at the meeting of the Christian Extension Movement.

The minister took for his text, The One Thing Needful, illustrating it by the story related in the Gospel according to St. Mark, where the rich young man approaches the Master and says, "Good teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

The minister then related how Christ doubted the sincerity of the suppliant, knowing that it was for purely selfish reasons that the wealthy ruler was anxious for eternity.

"No self-centered person can claim to be Christian or be a follower of Christ," said the pastor. He cannot leave his master passion behind and we must lose ourselves and our master passion at the foot of the cross to be saved."

"The biggest heresy that we have to contend with is making an automobile speedway out of the road to heaven. Selfish and self-centered people are making the road to heaven easy these days."

"There are a lot of this kind in our churches right here in Honolulu. They go to church, they pray and

Shingle Decay Doesn't Pay

Particularly when it can be prevented at small cost by the use of

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PRESERVATIVE SHINGLE STAINS
(Made with Creosote)

The use of creosote gives these stains excellent preservative properties, greatly increasing the natural life of the shingles.

The colors are all of good tone and maximum permanency. The wide experience of The Sherwin-Williams Co. in handling pigments and oils in the manufacture of the finest paints and colors, is worth a good deal to you in shingle stain.

Twenty-three handsome shades.

See colors on wood at our store.

E. O. HALL &amp; SON, Limited.

Anniversary Sale of Millinery

To celebrate the closing of the seventh year of a successful business in Honolulu, we will, commencing SATURDAY, MARCH 9th, conduct a special sale in all our lines of

Millinery and Men's Hats

This sale is not for the purpose of disposing of odds and ends, but will enable our patrons to realize a handsome saving on any article selected from our large and carefully assorted stock.

K. Uyeda,

Nuuanu Street near Hotel.